Yankton 2014 – NFAA and IFAA Field Championships

Hotel reservations awry, bow stand falling down the elevator shaft, BUGS, BUGS, BUGS—mosquitos, biting flies and Chiggers, heat and humidity, rain and muck. Aussie, Aussie, Aussie —oy! oy! oy!

These are a few of the wonderful memories I bring back from the 10 days of competing in the NFAA and IFAA tournaments in Yankton.

Have you ever had one of those trips where everything seems to go wrong? That was pretty much the story for our trip to Yankton. It all started when I was making airline reservations. I travelled a lot last year, so knew that I could book the trip using my mile awards. There are three airport options for getting to Yankton—Sioux City, Sioux Falls and Omaha. When I first looked, all cities were available with my miles program. Then when I went to book, both Sioux City and Sioux Falls were blacked out, leaving only Omaha, a 3 hour drive instead of 1.5 hours. This was OK because I was able to book First Class and would not have been able to at the other airports.

Then about 2 weeks before leaving, I was looking at the number of people registered for the tournaments and wondered—where are they all staying? Yankton is not a very big town. The only major chain motels are a Best Western, a Holiday Inn Express, a Days Inn and a Super 8. Knowing the hotel situation in Yankton, we had booked at the Super 8 in December. Well to my surprise, when I looked at the Accommodations page on the NFAA website, the Super 8 was not listed. So I found my reservation confirmation and called the number. The call was answered —Yankton Inn, how can I help you. I stammered into the phone, “this isn’t the Super 8?” and received the reply that the hotel was no longer affiliated with Super 8, it was now privately owned. I prepaid for these reservations—so someone has my money. We decided to not take the chance on this hotel, and instead stayed in Vermillion, about a 25 minute drive from Yankton. So I now have about $2200 in hotel expenses and am working to get a refund from Wyndham, the owner of Super 8. We had a GMC SUV for a rental, so the travel back and forth was not too bad.

Upon arrival in Yankton, we got out on the range for some practice. BUGS, BUGS, BUGS. Mosquitos and biting flies. After shooting for a couple hours, we get to the hotel and check-in. As we are carrying our bows into the elevator, I bump my stand, it falls off and drops into the door slot and down the elevator shaft. What are the odds that something the size of a bow stand can bounce just in the right alignment to fall into a slot no more than 1.5” wide? Anyway, the hotel was great about getting my stand back to me once they got the service company there. My first day on the course for the tournament and I learned about Chiggers. I had not a clue what these little buggars can do, but now I have a reminder every time I sit in a chair.

I shot with some incredible archers, all from the US. A big part of going to an international competition is to meet and shoot with archers from other countries. One day I shot with three recurve freestylers—it was a really long day!

Thanks to the Indian dancers and their rain dance during the opening ceremony, we shot 4 of the 5 days of the IFAA in rain and muck. I'm sure it wasn't completely their fault but...

California made a good showing, bringing home several NFAA silver bowls and IFAA medals. Some of the California archers are pictured below. Stacy Pearce set a new record. Tom Daley, Rusty Mills, Dave and Sandy McCain were all winners as well. Our NCFEA Regional president, Kathy Budding, won her class in both the NFAA and IFAA competition.
